That "Automatic" orchard step ladder that Holmes & Bilsborrow talk about in their adv. this week is a dandy. Everybody who has a single fruit tree is interested in it.

Monday, H. L. McNeil received a letter announcing that the gentleman with whom he had business in Oklahoma, is down with a fever. This will postpone Mr. McNeil's western trip for a time.

Two small boys found a valuable gold watch on the street Tuesday afternoon. With commendable honesty, they took it to the post office, and it was soon found to be the property of Mrs. Tensie Stevens.

Judge and Mrs. Heckert arrived home Tuesday from Mr. Clemens and are again at their desks in the probate office. The judge received great benefit from the baths and treatment at that place.

A frost Tuesday night did considerable damage in this county, cutting corn, millet, potatoes, mint, etc., badly on the low grounds. A frost in July is a pretty tough addition to the frosts in May and the drouth all summer.

How can a man expect his children to look up at him when he humiliates them every day by wearing his last year's clothes? How proud they would be to point him out as their father if he wore one of the "H. S. & M." suits, sold by E. Smith & Co.

A medium sized audience assembled at the Free Baptist church last Tuesday evening to listen to Mr. M. H. Reynolds, secretary of the Michigan State Sunday School Association. The address was interesting and instructive and should have been heard by a greater number of our people.

There is at the NORTHERNER office a photograph taken by Tuttle of Lawton, of a group of about 110 old soldiers at the Eagle lake reunion. The picture is an excellent one. The most noticeable feature of it is the aged appearance of the veterans. The "boys in blue" will be with us but a few short years.

"Billy" Murdock was hilariously drunk Monday night. Marshall Allen gathered him in, carrying him bodily a portion of the way to the jail. Billy is a periodical imbibor whom the usual punishments by law seems to do nothing to reform. Accordingly Tuesday morning, under dire threats as to what would happen to him if found drunk in Paw Paw again, he was let go and heeled it rapidly up the road to get out town.

We saw the other day several stalks of corn from the farm of Lawrence Martin between this place and Lawton, the leaves of which were literally cooked by the frost of Tuesday night. He had an 18 acre field of fine looking corn on low ground that was ruined. Mr. Martin's large cherry orchard was nipped in the spring, as was also his 30 acre vineyard. It would seem as though Jack Frost should select someone else's crops for his future depredations.

The people who have occasion to drive in or out of town on the Gobleville road feel like tendering to Rev. E. H. Harvey a vote of thanks for the improvements he has made at his new home. The house has been thoroughly repaired and repainted, the trees trimmed up, the underbrush cut out, the premises cleaned and sleeked up until a general air of order and prosperity pervades the place, which is now one of the very prettiest in Paw Paw.

There will be a union service at the M. E. church next Sunday evening. Rev. Kennan will deliver the address, taking as his text II Sam. XII, 7: "Thou art the man." His theme will be "Our national dangers and who is responsible for them." His first proposition will be that many things menace our country and our people. Among them are the saloon, as a drunkard maker and as a powerful political factor; the gambling mania, exhibited in patronage of lotteries, gambling at horse races and various other games; the looseness of the marriage tie and the social evil; the growth of plutocracy with its tendency to produce trusts and monopolies, its influence upon legislation and crushing down of certain large classes; the decay of patriotism. His second proposition will be that the agencies usually referred to as producers of these effects are not sufficient in themselves to produce such great effects, and his third, that the greatest agency is one little suspected and less accused.

Charles Thorne and Otto Broade, the two toughest characters of the gang who burglarized Geo. Chamberlain's house at Hartford, have been confined in a cell sheeted with boiler iron since the previous effort of the gang to break jail, which it will be remembered was nearly successful. They don't like their quarters and have been trying to get out again. In some manner they succeeded in loosening a piece of the iron that covered the floor and broke off a large piece of it. Then with a small piece broken from that, they commenced cutting through the wooden flooring. Tuesday morning Sheriff Lamberson discovered what they were doing and at once removed all the pieces of iron they had broken off and put down a new sheet on the floor. These two men are bad customers, and the sheriff will be exceedingly fortunate if he can keep them until September in the paper lined cracker barrel that is dignified by the name of the Van Buren county jail.

The spirit of philanthropy towards poor but worthy victims of the late Geo. E. Breck's erratic financial methods, seems to be contagious among capitalists of Kalamazoo. This time our former townsman, Mr. Edwin Martin, and his wife show the generosity towards Charles Ort of Waverly, Ort has a home of 40 acres, on which there was a mortgage for $500 owned by Mrs. Robt. Cherry of California, who formerly lived here. Desiring a little larger loan, Mr. Ort went to Mr. Breck and executed a new mortgage for $750, taking $250 in cash. Mr. Breck agreed to pay the prior mortgage, but did not do so. The $750 mortgage was subsequently sold to Martin, who last week, upon investigating all the circumstances, paid the $500 mortgage, thus putting Ort's indebtedness at the proper figure. The finding of so much of good in humanity tends to replace the faith in honesty and justice that was so severely shaken by Breck's crookedness.

On the 12th day of July last, Mrs. Helen M. Brooks was 70 years old, and on the 27th of the same month, Elder T. Brooks was 75 years of age. As such an event, to use the elder's own words, had never happened to them before, they determined to celebrate the unique occasion, and accordingly invited the members of the Christian church, of which he was formerly the pastor, and others of their friends and neighbors, to meet at their residence last Friday evening and partake of ice cream with them. Upward of a hundred responded to the invitation and a very enjoyable time was had. It was planned to have the party on the lawn and, with that in view, the elder had caused a row of incandescent lights to be arranged for the occasion. The festivities, however, had but fairly commenced, when it began to rain and all were compelled to seek the shelter of the house. Previous to the serving of refreshments, some time was passed in listening to vocal music, reading letters of congratulation from distant friends, speech making, etc. At the conclusion of this part of the program, the cream and other light refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks have been known to our citizens for many years and have a host of friends. When a few years since, they took up their permanent residence in this place, it was a source of gratification to all, and it is sincerely hoped that they may be spared for many years to come. As the elder remarked, "I have taken a bee line for my 80th year," and many friends hope he will not only reach that mile post, but others still beyond. There are few men in this or any other community, who are more highly respected than Mr. Brooks, and his excellent wife is equally well beloved. The elder was born in the state of New York, is thoroughly educated, has a marvelous faculty for word painting, is a fine reasoner and a logical and eloquent speaker. His early years were devoted to teaching, but he has been in the ministry for upwards of forty years. He was raised a Presbyterian, but subsequently united with the Disciples and has been in many a hard fought battle for the peculiar tenets of that people, and none ever engaged with him but found him a foe worthy of his steel. Unlike many of his brethren, while not acknowledging the justice of the appellation, he rather delights in being called a Campbellite. His uprightness of character, sociability and genial disposition have served to endear him to all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance, both in the church and out. The NORTHERNER joins with a multitude of friends in wishing the aged couple a pleasant and prosperous journey down the hill of life.
